Abstract

Inkjet coders are a long established market for inkjet technology in all regions. This market has been hurt worldwide by the recession, but within two years will start to return to its normal pattern of minimal growth in North America and Europe, and more significant growth in Asia Pacific and Latin America. This report estimates and forecasts the world's inkjet coder markets for the years 2008 through 2013, and it offers explanatory text about the major trends in those markets.
